Rain-Rain- Rain- But It Failed To Dampen Klondike Kamps Enthusiasm

Outstanding was the enthusiasm of the folks of this district and our Chamber of Commerce for the way they "came through" the untimely seige of mighty inclement weather to produce a show which we might well call "the show of shows" to take their part in that great event which will become a great Canadian Classic: the Whitewater Canoe race.

From places other than Drayton Valley, places such as Edmonton, to name but one of many, come words of commendation for the terrific show our local Chamber of Commerce and individual citizens put on in the midst of very unfavorable weather conditions of the past weekend.

There can be no doubt about it, that the work, time and effort that had gone into the preparing of the camp-site had not been done in vain, although the full facilities of the camp-site could not be used or realized because of the flooding conditions of the river and the omnipresent mud.

It has been said that the first annual Klondike Kamps Carnival was an outstanding success in every way... except financially. The sponsoring body, the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce will come out on the short end of the stick, financially. They will not realize in return from the Klondike anything like the amount of money they spent in promoting the event.

But there are some things that "cannot be bought with money" and the goodwill and publicity that the town and district obtained as a result of the Carnival... and the way every one met the adverse situation, one must measure the value for the future.

Coming to Drayton Valley to greet their Canoeist daddy as he arrived on the first leg of the down-river water race: three year old Kathy, four year old Danny and Douglas, who is five. They are on the riverbank with their mother, Mrs Donna Noble, who is waiting for her husband, Chuck Noble, to arrive in D.V. with his partner Doug, Buchanan. Both men work in Edmonton for A.C.T.

IF YOU WANT TO "PALM" AN ACE (or a three-spot) YOU JUST CAN'T BEAT A PAIR OF DRAYTON VALLEY OXFORDS TO TURN THE TRICK. DRAYTON VALLEY HOTEL'S FLOAT FEATURED A "98 SCENE COMPLETE WITH CARD GAMES. THESE FOLKS ARE ALL SO WELL KNOWN THEY DON'T NEED TO BE IDENTIFIED.

OUR KATE

Though Edmonton Klondike Days Committee were the ones that first engaged Jane Forrest as Personality Gal for the now-celebrated Klondike Days in Edmonton we of Drayton Valley, and other places where she has visited have taken Jane to our hearts also.

She has worked a mighty tight schedule ever since she arrived from Toronto. Much of that tight schedule has been performed in very adverse weather conditions... pouring rain, and easy mud, but she has carried on buoyantly.

She says everyone in the west, including the folks of the Calgary Stampede, Edmonton Klondike Days, Rocky Mountain House Whitewater Canoe Carnival and Drayton Valley Kamps Carnival have been marvelous to her.

Traveling with "Kate" on her trips is her western manager and his wife, Ron and Elaine Asst. Ron is manager of the plush "Coachman" Inn.

Mrs Forrest says she'll always remember her trip to the west, she has loved every minute of it... even to the timing in the cold, pouring rain that she did at Rocky Mountain House.

We, of this district thank Edmonton's Klondike Committee for "loaning" Kate to us, and we thank Kate for coming and contributing to the gay spirit of the occasion.

Klondike Kamps Stage Shows Outstanding

With some fifty performers the stage shows put on by the Klondike Grandstand Review of 1965, was one of the outstanding performances of an action-packed weekend, filled with outstanding performances.

On a following page we list the names of the players and the plays in which they appeared. But first we want to give special notice to some features of the shows that we think were very, very well done.

First we want to give busy Barney Germaniak a hand for his masterly performance as producer and master of ceremonies on the "A" bill of the show.

When it comes to the actors themselves we won't rate them in this order: First, Don Becker, for his near-professional portrayal of the Minister in Lottie Germaniak for her performance as the Lady Known as Lou, in the same show. Third, we think that Penny Meier did an outstanding job as the Dance Hall floozy, and in fourth place we would give it to Steve Pajot for his excellent job of synchronized reading of the narrative of the poem "The Shooting of Dan McGrew".

Hours and hours of rehearsals and practice had gone into the show which featured some excellent staging as well as acting and pantomime.

AGRICULTURAL FARM SALE REGULATIONS

An amendment to the Agricultural Farm Sale
Regulations has been passed under authority of Order-in-Council 1117/65. Effective immediately the Department of Lands and Forests may consider applications for agricultural farm sales on any available land within the province, other than in the green or non-settlement area.

This amendment makes available for agricultural farm sale lands which were previously reserved solely for homestead purposes. Homestead applications will still receive priority over any other application.

Mrs. Signe Stordalvoll of 529, 16th Avenue, Creston, passed away at Creston Valley Hospital on July 6, 1965, at the age of 74.
Signe Stordalvoll was born at Trondheim, Norway, on October 5, 1891, and married Albert Stordalvoll at Stordalvoll, Norway. They lived on a small farm near Trondheim until 1929 when Mrs. Stordalvoll and son, Liet, immigrated to Drayton Valley, Alberta to homestead. Plans to bring the rest of the family to Canada were disrupted by World War II. It was not until 1949 that Mrs. Stordalvoll and three other children were able to journey to Drayton Valley. The couple moved to Creston in 1964 to retire.
Mrs. Stordalvoll's hobbies were sewing and gardening. She was predeceased by one son Adolph, in 1944 at Stordalvoll.
Surviving are her husband, Albert, Creston; five sons, Liet, Otto and Ole, Drayton Valley; Sven at Moroko, Norway; Beta in Sweden; two daughters, Mrs. F. Holmes, Consort, Alberta; Mrs. Mary L. Lerman, Moroko, Norway; five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.
Funeral services will be held on Saturday, July 10 at 2 p.m. from the Oliver Funeral Home, Creston with Rev. A. G. Lund-Torgas officiating. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY...
Earl and Dean Thompson celebrate their silver wedding anniversary this coming Thursday.

They were married in Rocky Mountain House in 1940, on July 18th.

The Thompsons have two girls, Judith, 7 and Anna Marie, aged 2.

Still wearing his Original type beard, Dr. Robert Findy returned from Fort Worth Texas, after attending a seminar, he attended a one week course run on by the Parker Clinic Research Foundation.
1200 chimpanzees were there, from various parts of Europe, New Zealand, Australia and all over Canada and the U.S.
Riding backward and back north again on the trip with him were to fellow-practitioners, one from Fort Dodge and the other from Inuit. On the return trip they had a high speed driving and sleeping and made the trip of some 2300 miles in 48 hours flat.

Dr. Rob took some of the Drayton Valley oil boys with him. First one of these was left in Denver, Colorado, then they were moved on to Fort Worth. One went to New Zealand, one to Sweden and one to Australia.

The Klondike heard him as he said he met about 500 of the 1200 members of the petroleum present at the seminar. They would talk up to him and say "Mykakee" which gave the opening for the Drayton Valley Klondike Kampen speak.

whitewater canoe race

34 entries were listed for the Alberta Whitewater Canoe Race, but when they saw the kind of river water they had to paddle on twelve dropped out before the start. 75 made the initial start from Rocky Mountain House to Drayton Valley. Many dropped out, or were put out by the high swift waters and the final lap from Devon to Edmonton had only 38 finishers. Of these 23 finished in the money.

The film fun entries came in far in the lead, with a total of 15 hours, 38 minutes and 30 seconds of paddling time. Next this pair of winners were the couple of husky young paddlers, professional Gib McEachern and Norm Crocker. Next at the finish line were Patricia and Sawm from the U.S., with 15 hours 49 minutes and 5 seconds, the Fraser-Hunt duo from Kamloops were third under the wire with 15-15-131. A Kamloops couple also came in fourth place and Sawm from Drayton Valley came in 14th place at the final lap, thus qualifying for a share of the money.

John Nichol, of the Whitewater Canoe Association said that every paddler that finished the stretch from Rocky to Drayton downed a medal for the kind of effort that had been expended on such a high fast river. He said that the time which has been set was probably a record for a canoe race of this length to come. He was much pleased with the reception the race and the paddlers had received. In Drayton Valley, in spite of the rain and the mud, the bridge was lined with spectators and the road was lined with cars parked on the side for blocks back from the bridge.

In Edmonton for the finish some 50 to 60 thousand persons were on hand for the finish line. Mr. Nichol paid special tribute to the work of Charlie Huse in his last pickup boat, and Lloyd Martin and Don McEachern, all of Edmonton. Cliff Briscoe, Rocky old time residents and Mr. Bob Thompson with Don Sharp were the judges. All members in the Whitewater Canoe Association were given to the judges and the pickup men. Also highly commended was the work of Bob Thompson, Mr. Nichol who practically went without sleep for the entire race times in order to help get and stay under way.

In addition to the money the first 33 entries at the finish line got, every paddler also received a Whitewater Canoe crest, from the club man of the Committee.

Swimming News

The inclement weather during the past week put a further damper on swimming pool attendance. A week ago during a brief sunny spell, the average attendance per day seemed to be 500 or more, but as we are back to our daily spots of 50 or 75 swimmers. At this point we are well below the seasonal attendance marks set in 1963 and 1964.

As of June 30, a total of 8,702 persons used the pool for an average of 218 persons per day. Approximately 49% of this total were children, 30% were students, and 19% were adults. On July 14 we will have reached the half-way mark in our season and we certainly look for better weather and consequently a better attendance during the second half of our schedule. The anticipated 40,000 mark for seasonal attendance is looking realistic as our attendance has been increasing very favorably. The first set of instructions will be completed this week-end and classes will begin again on Monday July 19 and run through to the end of the month. There is still room for candidates in these classes as well as in those being held during the month of August. We ask you to register as early as possible in any case. The deadline for all registration in any swimming instruction classes being held this season is 10:00 p.m. July 20. There seems to be a great number of candidates in the intermediate and senior classes. If you are in line to try for those Red Cross Qualifications here is your golden opportunity to do so. There are plenty of openings for candidates at either level.

Royal Life Saving Society classes will be held from Aug. 2 through Aug. 14, under the direction of Kim McIlroy. This instruction will be given at three levels. Elementary, Intermediate, and Rescue Medicine. Here is an excellent opportunity for qualified swimmers of ten years of age or more who appear to be A.C.B. swimmers and future service as lifeguards. The Elementary and Intermediate courses are meant for youngsters from ten to fourteen years of age of anyone desiring to become familiar with Royal Life Saving Society criteria. These courses serve as an introduction to the training of the Society and also as a ground work for those who wish to become lifeguards. The rescue course is necessary for anyone to have at least a "rescue" rating in the R.L.S. before he or she can be employed as a lifeguard at any public swimming pool.

The Chapel Hour

OBEEDIENCE-TO GOD AND MEN
TAKEN FROM VITAL CHRISTIANITY

In the early stages of World War II the people of Norway found themselves under the military and political heel of an invader. Citizens of that land were confronted with the dilemma of whether to obey and collaborate with the new government or whether to resist and disobey.

As is often the case in such circumstances there were those who felt they must disobey or at least passively resist their captors. This was done in the name of religious principle. As one of the key leaders of the Norwegian church later said, "We hung Luther in the face of the Gestapo."

These Christian leaders and those who chose to follow them were not unaware of the injunction of Paul in Romans 13:1: "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers." But they were also aware of the instance of Peter and the other apostles who once found it necessary to refuse civil obedience and defend their action by saying, "We ought to obey God rather than man" (Acts 5:29).

Again and again across all the centuries since that time, Christians have been caught in the tension implied between those two points of view with regard to government; and they have had to agonize in conscience over what their tactics should be in the face of demands for obedience to government they considered tyrannical or unjust. Answers do not come easily in some circumstances.

Take Luther, for example. The paradox of his position in these matters is plain for all who will bother to open the pages of church history and refresh their memories of what was happening in Europe in the sixteenth century.

Luther was a strong believer in obedience to government. He regarded government as ordained of God for the purpose of preserving law and order. He regarded it as a necessary because of the sinful tendencies of man. These had to be curbed by the sword if necessary. He could quote Paul's injunction in Romans 13 with zeal and conviction. This passage was foundational to his whole concept of proper relationships between church and state.

For Luther, then, the primary political responsibility of a Christian was that of unquestioned obedience to civil authority. The powers that be were ordained of God and the Christian's duty was clear; obey. It was in the light of this principle that he could be so stern in his support of the ruthless manner in which the peasant rebellions of his time were put down.

But even Luther found it necessary to make exceptions to the principle of unquestioning obedience to government. On one occasion he was directly asked what the duty of the church and the Christian was in situations where the rights of men were being trampled by unjust government. His reply was clear: "The church's front line is wherever there are those who suffer unjustly." On other occasions he indicated his awareness that at times it was necessary for the Christian to rebuke government, challenge injustices, and even disobey in the name of conscience.

to the dilemma of our own time are by no means new. When Christians in the first century refused to perform a ritual act which in their eyes attempted to deify the Roman emperor, they were establishing a tradition of civil disobedience to which men in every generation since have appealed when they felt trapped between demands of government felt to be unjust and the demands of Christian conviction felt to be a higher good.

Is a Christian supposed to obey his government in all and every circumstance? Before we say a gift or dogmatic "yes" we need to remind ourselves of the plight of Christians today caught under the tyranny of communism. Are we to deny them any form of protest? Do we not expect them to resist at least passively if they dare not openly?

And what of civil disobedience viewed as a means of nonviolent protest against laws considered unjust or practices that fall short of granting equal opportunity and rights for all the citizens of a land. Civil disobedience has its dangers and they are grave. But most Christian thinkers across the ages have defended it under at least some circumstances. The Christian owes allegiance to his government, but an even higher allegiance to his God.

Report from H. Horner M.P.

One of the nice things about being Member of Parliament for Jasper-Edson is that it contains Jasper National Park.

There is no doubt in my mind that this is truly one of the most beautiful parks in the world. However, because it is a National Park it has special problems. These problems are not easily solved. They have not been looked at realistically in the past, and the present attitude of the Parks Department shows that they are still not being realistic about Jasper.

In 1900-1 61, after much agitation, meeting and surveys of the problems besetting town and a National Park.

There is no doubt in my mind that this is truly the most beautiful park in the world. However, because it is a National Park it has special problems. These problems are not easily solved. They have not been looked at realistically in the past, and the present attitude of the Parks Department shows that they are still not being realistic about Jasper.

As stated in so far as local government was concerned and a few approaches to leasing on a standardized basis.

The Crawford Report was not an accurate document because the representations made to it were not realistic. I am referring to representations particularly of the members of the Commission. To my mind they missed a very important opportunity to better their town by advocating some self government.

Further discussion since then, and an exhaustive town planning survey continue to be hampered by medieval thinking on the part of the Parks Department.

was done Jasper needed:

1. a reorganization of the policy by the former Northern Affairs Minister, Mr. Macdonald. This is the policy of services, some recreation areas and wildlife areas to our park.
2. A policy that is going to clearly say that private enterprise and capital can and will develop our park under Government supervision.
3. A complete change of attitude on the part of senior officials of the Parks Department to the effect that (a) they will follow the above noted policy; (b) realistically accept the fact that there is no going to be a town within Jasper National Park (J.N.P.) be willing to allow the people to govern themselves under a local government.

All other towns in Alberta govern themselves under articles laid down in the Town and Village Act. It is reasonable and necessary that we have a Federal Parks Town Act setting down how these towns will govern themselves.

On this is done, all the land in the prescribed township should be freed from lease and made available for freehold tenure.

This would solve innumerable problems. It would allow the people to know where the wamp - it is the only way out of the lodge-podge of leasing which now exists, and the worst ones are coming. Just planning advice could be made available.

The people in Jasper are second class citizens. They are not receiving all of the benefits due them from the province. They are continually fighting with Ottawa bureaucrats over small and insignificant regulations (as well as large and important ones).

The bureaucrats will yell "out" at us and then to stir up all kinds of publicity to say "we are running our park into 'Coney Island', that we are going to destroy our heritage and are denigrating the noble thought in the preamble to the National Parks Act. Utter nonsense, a local government setting up regulations would do a better job of running Jasper Town than the bureaucrats are now doing. safeguards could easily be incorporated into a Federal Parks Towns Act. The Federal Government as an important taxpayer in the town could have its representatives on the council. However, the superintendents should be more concerned with the park, rather than being mayor of a town.

In summary then, what we need is:

- A clear distinction between townships and the role of the park.
- An immediate change from leasehold to free hold status with present leases having priority.
- A Federal Parks Town and Village Act based on the Alberta Act, but with differences in language the nature of our park.
- A local elected Government to run town affairs.
- Federal employees would then spend their time more profitably supervising the Park as such and not the townships.
- A development plan for the town worked out by the local government with advice and assistance from senior governments.
- The Alberta Government would then be able to play its proper role in regard to the residents of the town.
- It would remove the political pressure from the townships, allow business men to concentrate on service and beauty without fear of political reprisal.
